Reminders
When was the last time you had a conversation with the priest who regularly presides at your Sunday liturgies? Sit down for a conversation with your regular presider to express thanks for their commitment to your hall community.

Reading Reflection
- Jesus's own hometown community did not realize who he was. When Jesus claims his role as God's prophet, the people became “filled with fury”. Their prior conceptions of Jesus as the son of Joseph clouded their vision, and they failed to see how God was working in the midst of their lives.
- We need to search for the ways God speaks to us. While the furious reaction of Jesus's community may initially seem alarming, it can hardly be said to be out of the ordinary. Communities can become comfortable with where they are, and collectively fail to see the new ways God is inviting them into the mysteries of His wondrous love.

Jesus, help me to listen to those who point me towards God, even when this message comes from people and places I would never expect it to come from.
